UNIQUE INAUGURAL BALL

Walton to Deliver Pledge to People After Speech in Legislature.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—A gala attired capital today awaited the inaugural of J. C. Walton, fifth governor of Oklahoma. Decorated with flags and bunting from one end of its marble interior to the other, it presented a colorful stage for the throng that began assembling long before the house set for the advent of the new administration.

People from all corners of the state filled the building, all in holiday attire, inspecting many of them for the first time, the beauties of the structure.

The band from Northwestern State Teachers college of Alva, its members attired as cowboys and wearing high six shooters on their hips, calichened the morning hours with music intermingled with the crash of blank shots that sent the echoes bounding through the corridors of the big building.

Governor J. B. A. Robertson arrived with Mrs. Robertson shortly before 11 o'clock and went to his office. Soon Senator Robert L. Owen called and was admitted to the governor's private office.

Learning that the governor had arrived the Alva band serenaded him from the corridor in front of his office ending their program with "Auld Lang Syne."

Governor-elect Walton arrived at the capitol with a committee shortly before noon and went to the governor's office where he was to remain until sent for by the joint session of the house and senate before which he is to take the oath of office. Aldrick Blake, his secretary, had been at his desk several minutes when the incoming executive entered the office.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—Oklahoma City was the mecca for tens of thousands of persons today as the hour drew near for the beginning of Governor-elect J. C. Walton's inaugural celebration.

In airplanes, automobiles, railroad trains and interurban cars they came, constantly augmenting the swirling mass of holiday seekers on the down town streets. Even the lowly oxcart was pressed into service as a means of transportation for their owners.

The festivities began taking definite shape yesterday when crowds thronged to the state fair grounds to observe the smoking mile long barbecue pits filled with tons of fire wood which was set yesterday morning in order to make a great bed of live coals over which will be cooked fourteen varieties of meats. The feast will be served tomorrow at noon.

The three-day program will start at high noon today when Governor-elect Walton is administered the oath of office before a joint session of the legislature at the state capitol. This afternoon and tonight the state house will be conducted into a four story ball room and for the first and probably the only time its corridors will echo with the blare of jazz orchestras combining with the subdued strains of old time fiddles playing the Virginia Reel and other pre-twentieth century tunes.

Dancing for All Classes.

For there will be dancing to suit all ages and classes—"The fox trot for the flapper and her smooched haired escort and the minute for grandmother and grandfather" to use the governor-elect's own words.

After a parade tomorrow which will move all across the town, the governor will again take the oath of office, this time before the public. He will deliver his address from a platform erected before the bandstand at the fair grounds. Blanketed Indians with their war paint, cowboys in holiday regalia, cattlemen, farmers and methodical business men will rub elbows at the ceremony. More than 200,000 people are expected to witness it.

Immediately afterwards, the largest meal on record in Oklahoma will be served the multitude.

Dancing and public receptions by officials and dignitaries of the incoming administration will occupy (Continued on Page Six)

PARKS PAROLED BY ROBERTSON

Three Ada Parties Named as Petitioners for Executive Leniency.

Papers in the parole of Joe Parks, sentenced here in criminal session district court January 28, 1921 on a charge of rape, were filed in district court here today by order of Governor J. B. A. Robertson.

Parks' parole was secured on the petition of J. W. Bolen, F. F. Brydia and John P. Crawford, papers state.

Four points were entered in the parole papers restricting Parks to the jurisdiction of the court here, with usual instruction to file reports of his activities in writing to court officials. Any failure to follow out terms of the parole order would result in it being revoked, the papers stated.

The order for parole of Parks is probably the last official act in connection with Governor Robertson's interest in the local court. Parks' parole followed Governor Robertson's Christmas parole orders, which released several prisoners from the state penitentiary.

Although Parks' sentence was handed down in the January session, 1921 his appeal to supreme court has never been acted on.

Ada Sends Rally Party to Honor Governor Walton

With a band of thirty pieces and the president of the local college in attendance, East Central college today is represented at the Walton inaugural celebration at Oklahoma City.

The band composed of players from the high school and college, left early this morning for the state capitol to attend the ceremony. The men were dressed in white duck trousers and wore the football sweaters awarded this year. Prof. A. L. Fentem is in charge of the Ada musical organization.

Local railroad ticket offices report a large increase in the number of tickets sold today. Each train carries an additional number to the barbecue. Early morning trains today were loaded and the transportation facilities were augmented by extra coaches.

Ada and Pontotoc county will be well represented in every phase of the celebration, local boosters declared before leaving today to attend the barbecue.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A draft of the new east treaty will be presented to the Turks at Lausanne within a fortnight. It was said in official circles today. The Turks will be told to sign the document or to tear it in pieces and take the consequences.

WALTON ORDERS GUARDS

New Governor Offers $5,000
Reward for Capture of Fred Dennis.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—John Calloway Walton was inducted into office at 12:36 p. m. today as Oklahoma's fifth governor.

So thick was the crowd that witnessed the ceremony that men sat with their feet dangling over the balcony rails, while others climbed to the roof of the building and watched through the skylights.

The oath was administered by Acting Chief Justice Johnson of the state supreme court, Lieut. Gov. M. E. Trapp, presiding over the joint session of the legislature, was the only other man standing on the platform. With the conclusion of the oath, an ovation was brought forth from the legislators and spectators which jammed the galleries and corridors near the chamber. The ovation lasted several minutes and then the new governor started reading his message to the legislators.

Frequent applause interrupted the new governor as he drove salient points in his legislative program. The band on the first floor continued to play and it was necessary to "close the doors of the house chamber so that persons in the room could hear his words."

Former Governor J. B. A. Robertson in a brief address preceding the administering of the oath outlined briefly his four years in office, declaring he was "willing to leave in the hands of the angel of time the things I did while in office."

Following the reading of Governor Walton's message, oaths were administered to all other incoming state officers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—The 179th Infantry, Oklahoma City unit of the Oklahoma National guard, was ordered mobilized at once by Governor J. C. Walton here today. It was the first executive order of the new governor. The guard will be on duty during the remainder of the inaugural ceremony and barbecue. The unit contains about 1,000 men, commanded by Brigadier General B. F. Markham.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—A reward of $5,000 for the return dead or alive of Fred G. Dennis, former state bank commissioner, now a fugitive under indictment for alleged irregularities in the conduct of his office was announced today by Governor J. C. Walton.

OWEN ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY FOR NEXT TERM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—United States Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma announced here today that he will be a candidate for re-nomination in 1924. Senator Owen's announcement was made in denying a report that gained wide circulation among inaugural crowds at the state capitol that his resignation was imminent.

BRITISH WANT FAIR SETTLEMENT OF DEBT

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Great Britain wants a fair business settlement of the five billion dollar war debt to the United States on such terms as will produce the least possible disturbance in the trade relations between the two countries, Stanley Baldwin, British chancellor of the exchequer, declared today in an address before the joint meeting of the British and American debt funding commissions.

"We are not here to ask for favors or to impose on generosity," said Mr. Baldwin. "We want a fair business settlement, a square deal, a settlement that will secure for America the repayment to the last cent of those credits which the United States government established in America for us, their associates in the war."

PITCHFORD NAMED NEW SUPREME COURT CHIEF

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—John H. Pitchford of Tahlequah, former vice-chief justice of the state supreme court, was today elected chief justice following the formation of the new court. Justice John P. Johnson of Lawton was named vice-chief justice. Chief Justice Pitchford is ill at his residence here and the court went to his bedside for the administration of the oath. Justice Johnson will be acting head of the court during Chief Justice Pitchford's absence.

Fred P. Branson of Muskogee, the only new member of the court, was sworn in. Justice John B. Harrison and Matthew L. Cain, re-elected in the November election also took the oath. Justice Harrison tendered his resignation as chief justice last Friday in anticipation of the formation of the new court. Justice Branson succeeded for justice John R. Miller of Sapulpa, whom he defeated in the November election.

AMERICAN PLANS FOR REPARATION PAYMENT AIRED

Hughes Suggestions in Hands of French Diplomatic Circles in Paris.

MAY CONSIDER PLANS

Official Comment Withheld on Consideration of French Authorities.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The plan for settlement of the reparations control between France and England outlined by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech has been communicated to the French government, through official channels.

No final reply has been made by France, although it was learned today that a preliminary answer had been received here from the French office. It was settled at the state department that the proposal was regarded as still before the French government for final decision.

It was not stated when the American communication was sent but indications were that it was transmitted through diplomatic channels before Mr. Hughes delivered his address at New Haven.

It was settled authoritatively that the transmittal was "perfectly definite in character and it was indicated that it revolved about the suggestion that international financiers be called in to formulate a reparations payment plan."

Official comment as to the nature of the preliminary answer received from the Paris government was withheld. The statement that the American suggestion still was definitely before the French government was interpreted to mean that the French answer was not an absolute rejection of the scheme.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The occupation of Essen by a small French force accompanied by engineers and customs officers, is now slated for Thursday morning, it was stated on good authority today.

Belgium and Italian engineers and technical experts will accompany the French but only the Belgium, it is understood, will contribute to the force of occupation.

Presbyterians Set Goal for Payments on New Building

The Presbyterian congregation has set $1,000 a month as the goal for payment to the church erection fund for the next ten months, the first Sunday in each month being the time for final payments. At the services of Sunday Orville Sneed treasurer of the fund, announced that the goal was just about reached for the month, only about $36 lacking to make it complete. This does not include more than $200 in work donated during the past month.

Bricklaying has been going steadily forward and the walls are now ready for a layer of stone which will be placed shortly. Pastor Whitwell and his helpers began the New Year with a big day's work on the building and have lost no time since.

STATE PUTS LAKE TRAGEDY IN COURT

Attorney General Conducting
Investigation from a Scientific Angle.

(By the Associated Press)

BASTROP, La., Jan. 8.—With a lapse of a day within the open hearing and the observation of a state holiday, Attorney General A. V. Cocco and his corps of assistants, directed the state investigation in the kidnapping and slaying of Watt Daniels and Thomas Fletcher Richards, and other masked band depredations in Morhouse Parish, turned their attention today to a digest of evidence intended to establish by scientific deduction and physical exhibitions, that the two men were subjected to extreme cruelties before they were put to death.

Meanwhile federal and state investigators continued the assembling of evidence on which it is expected a score or more of men will be ultimately placed on trial as members of the black hooded band alleged to have been responsible for the kidnapping and slaying.

No announcement was made by Attorney General Cocco in advance of the conference with his assistants today as to the next move to be made and how far presentation of testimony would proceed before the anticipated arrests will be made. It is generally expected however that issuance of warrants will be completed before the week's end.

NET EARNINGS OF PRAIRIE OIL CO. TOLD TO SENATE

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Net earnings of approximately $20,000,000 by the Prairie Pipe Line company in 1922, on a capitalization of $27,000,000 were shown in testimony given at the senate oil investigating by Clark H. Kountz, of Independence, Kan., president of the corporation.

These earnings added to surpluses of $39,359,000 on hand at the end of 1921, enabled the Prairie company to declare recently its stock dividends of 200 percent, Mr. Kountz asserted.

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS

Explains Policy of Entering State Into Financial Arena as Necessity.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 8.—Characterizing the farmers as the only unorganized group, the only man standing out in the rain without an umbrella over his head, Gov. J. C. Walton in his first message to the state legislature here today made the tillers of the soil the central figure about which he erected a system of proposed reforms designed to aid Oklahoma industry citizenry in general.

The governor's message was read shortly after he had taken the oath of office administered by Acting Chief Justice John T. Johnson of the state supreme court. The ceremony was performed in the house chamber at the state capitol in the presence of both houses of the state legislature.

A system of warehouse, line and terminal elevators, built from concrete manufactured in a state owned factory, in which grain would be stored to give the farmers the benefit of good markets, and on which money would be loaned by the state as well as private banking interests, constituted a major part of the governor's agricultural relief program as outlined in his message.

Walton's Recommendations

Other outstanding recommendations were:

Strengthening of the bank guarantee law and providing immediate payment for depositors who have lost funds in state bank failures.

Aid to independent lead, zinc and oil producers, as well as oil refineries in their "struggle with world corporations."

Measures to force public utilities to submit the same property valuations for taxation and rate making purposes.

A new labor bonus bill.

Laws to reduce farm tenantry in the state.

A review of the state labor laws with revision to make the workman's compensation law cover death as well as injury.

Laws to foster the construction of permanent roads, particularly by making it possible for rural property owners to build highways through the creation of road improvement districts empowered to issue bonds.

Creation of a bureau to regulate practices in stock yards described as inimical to cattle interests.

A law covering the grading and marketing of farm products for the protection of farmer and consumer and having an anti-discrimination clause applying to both buying and selling.

Legislation authorizing the state to furnish free text books in public schools.

An amendment to the state constitution permitting women to hold any state or other office.

A law fostering the extension of cooperative practices in various industries.

Free surgical and medical treatment at the State University hospital here for afflicted persons financially unable to obtain such service, the cost to be assessed against the county from which the patient comes, and the creation of a state farm for the treatment of drug and liquor addicts.

Denounces Radical Accusations

The new executive referred in the opening sentences of his message to charges of radicalism made against him and briefly told the legislature of his attitude on questions which had been regarded as the basis for the allegations.

"The incoming administration has been accused of radicalism and fear has been expressed that the state will become bankrupt because of visionary ideas and Utopian theories of government," he said. "Let me say at the outset that so far as the administration is represented by me there is no thought of destroying the economic structure of our business and industrial life."

"And, gentlemen, do not think it strange for me to express my individual belief. I believe in the impersonal thing called capital. But it should be the servant and not the master of mankind. Theoretical (Continued on Page Six)

JACKSON DAY

January 8 marks the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans in which Andrew Jackson won a victory over the British that stands out as one of the most brilliant ever won by an American army. The war had been badly managed and the Americans had suffered many humiliating defeats on the land. Not a single general of outstanding ability had been developed on the American side and the war was the worst managed of any participated in by the United States. Jackson had been engaged in carrying on a war against the Creek Indians who were incited by the British to Attack the Americans and he did not have a chance at the British until the closing days of the war. However, when his hands were freed of the Creek war he went after the enemy in his usual energetic manner, driving them away from their base at Pensacola, repulsing their fleet at Mobile and then hastening to New Orleans to meet the unexpected attack in that quarter. Surmounting the greatest obstacles he organized his forces for action and with 6,000 backwoods riflemen, he inflicted a most crushing defeat on twice that number in the space of forty-five minutes.

Unlike many other generals, Jackson did not seize upon his sudden popularity to seek the presidency. He returned to his home and took up life where he left off, and for a number of years absolutely refused to permit his friends to put him forward for the presidency. However, when he finally did permit himself to be chosen, he took hold of the duties of his office in the same manner in which he did everything else he undertook. His administration was a stormy one but he carried his policies through and his administration is still regarded as a most important epoch in American history. He had many bitter enemies but they could never find anything in his character to attack. His rugged honesty was beyond question.

Jackson was the first self-made man to occupy the White House. His predecessors had all been brought up amid favorable surroundings and were men of education. Jackson had been brought up in poverty and his education was received in the school of adversity. However, he was a man who could make the most of his opportunities and when called to the presidency he was not an untutored backwoodsman, but a man with a grasp of the questions of the day who was ready to give the nation a strong government. Several grace foreign questions came up for settlement and the diplomats of his day found him their equal in every particular. The name of the United States was held in respect while Jackson was at the helm of the ship of state.

Jacksonian democracy is still an ideal in this country of ours. Jackson is still an idol of the people and his reputation is little dimmed with the passing of time. Young Americans can do no better than to read and study the life of this great American.

GOOD FOR BRONSON

E. S. Bronson of the El Reno American has for the past twenty years been recognized by his brother editors as a true type of a well-bred Southern gentleman and newspaper man. He is serving his seventeenth year as secretary of the state press association during which time he has devoted much time to the interests of the organization and worked in season and out of season to make it an effective and beneficial agency for the newspaper fraternity of Oklahoma. He now crowns his career by a gift of $10,000 and a collection of Indian curios and handiwork estimated to be worth $50,000 for the erection of a journalism building at the state university. Not only is this gift a boon to the present generation of students, but generations to come will partake of the benefit of Mr. Bronson's bounty.

When the will of Joseph Pulitzer provided for an endowment for a school of journalism in Columbia university, many editors were skeptical of its feasibility, believing that only through the old fashioned way of serving an apprenticeship as a reporter and working up by degrees was it possible for a man to become an editor. However, the success of the new school was such that the idea was taken up by other universities and today a school of journalism is found in almost all of the leading schools of the United States.

The Oklahoma school has been handicapped by meager appropriations for its maintenance, but it has made noteworthy progress. Its graduates have made good on papers throughout this and other states and the classes in journalism have steadily increased in numbers. Mr. Bronson's generous gift will have the effect of calling the attention of the public to this school add should result in better support from the state.

The chronic kicker can always find plenty of material upon which to exercise his talents. There is the old story about the old grouch who when everything else he complained of was set to rights, remarked that the weather and taxes still remained.

Let a NEWS WANT AD get it for you.

THEY MUST BE DIVORCED BEFORE THE ECONOMIC PROBLEM CAN BE SOLVED, SAYS SECRETARY HUGHES

The Forum of the Press

The Real You.
(Shawnee News)

Some of us have our music in our souls instead of in our voices, says David Gibson, dean of business writers. So in the last analysis we're all great singers. All we lack is the power of expression—a certain mechanical arrangement of flesh in the throat.

The real you is revealed in what you like and appreciate, rather than what you can do.

We're all singers, we're all dancers, we're all artists. Maybe we cannot paint a picture. But our souls have the artistic sense—the desire to paint, also appreciation of art when we view it at the museum. Flattering to the vanity, but true.

All of us are inwardly clever, artistic, shrewd, wise and good. But only a few of us can express what we feel. The rest "can't get it out." It's like a cork in a bottle.

"You are reminded of this when a friend, with a voice like filling a saw, tries to convey to you a melody he has heard and which he is carrying in his soul. He has the message, all right, but he can't get it across.

Wisdom resides in every soul. So-called knowledge and education merely are spades with which we cover our hidden wisdom. The uncovering, we call "developing." But the real power is there all the time latent, dormant, otherwise there wouldn't be anything to develop.

We all have evil streaks in our make-up. The people we call good are the ones with the ability to keep their evil natures suppressed—locked up. Others haven't yet found the key, so the evil runs at large.

Good lies buried, dormant, in our make-up, same as evil.

It also has to be uncovered (developed). A more difficult job in some cases than others.

Often it takes a heavy blow—sorrow or misfortune—to bring out our better selves, our finer emotions. And some times the same sorrow or misfortune sets loose the evil nature instead of the good. This quality, good or bad, were there all the time waiting to be brought forth.

Theoretically you may disagree with some of this reasoning. But you cannot disagree with the great truth lurking in the background. That truth is this: In the make-up of nearly every human there lies buried tremendous powers and marvelous abilities. To bring these out is the problem of life, of success, of happiness, of destiny.

The real you is a vast storehouse of treasure, waiting to be opened.

Average Life is 56 Years.

(Ardmoreite)

When will you die? The average length of life in our country now is 56. This is three and a half years more than in 1910 and 15 years more than in 1870.

The figures are supplied by Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University. He says the average life could be prolonged 20 years if all people could learn and profit by what health experts know. Health education has a lot to do with it. In ignorant India the average man is destined to die at 24. Longest lived people in the world are the progressive New Zealanders. They live 60 years on the average.

TIGERS TACK UP TWO NEW RECORDS

College Quintet Loses Three Out of Four Games But Establish Record.

Although losing three out of four basketball games played on their road trip last week, East Central Tigers established two records which have never been equalled, according to all figures available. Coach M. Z. Thompson announced today on his return to Ada.

In the second game played at Ada with Phillips University the two teams were forced to play five extra periods before the final result was obtained. Ada lost the first game 27 to 19 and the second game 27 to 28. Ada had a two point lead in the first half of the first game, but a strange court prevented the Tigers from maintaining the lead.

In the second game, Tigers gained another lead but dropped into a tie score of 20-20 as time was up. In the first extra period no score was made and the result was still 20-20. Four points by each side were made in the third period and the score stood 24-24. No score was made in the fourth extra period. In the fifth period Tigers scored and field goal and Enid scored a field goal, but on a free throw, the Phillips men won by one point. This is the longest collegiate basketball game on record in the United States.

At Edmond the first game with Central college ended with Ada leading 39 to 9. This was the hardest defeat ever administered to Central college on her home court. Edmond was stronger the second night and won 23 to 13.

American Modern Machinery Aid to French Building

PARIS.—American steam shovels, left behind in France by the American army, are speeding up the work of demolishing the fortified walls of the old city to such an extent that it will probably be completed in five years, instead of the 25 years it doubtless would have taken by pick and shovel.

The work started in 1919, and its end seemed so far away that no one concerned himself with the outcome. Now the end is virtually at hand, due to the efficiency of American machinery, and the astonished people of Paris foresee the inevitable battle between Paris and its suburbs over the extension of the city limits to include the entire department of the Seine.

As soon as the wall is down a law will be introduced into parliament consolidating the suburban towns of Boulogne, Neuilly, Levallois, Saint Denis, Pantin, Charenton, Vincennes, Ivry and a good many others with Paris. The suburban communities say this is too much honor. They prefer to go on living a modest suburban life, to share in the splendors of the capital. Besides, they reckon the cost will be greater than the honor.

Paris replies that the suburbs will enjoy the improvements that will be made on the site of the fortifications, and that therefore they should come in and share the expenses.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says glass of Salts helps to overcome rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids, resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a table spoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Adv.

Nightgown of Crepe and Pink Georgette and Lace

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE Fashion Service

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Exquisite orchid crepe de Chine makes the body part of this lovely nightgown. The bertha and the shoulder-yoke portions are pink Georgette daintily pinked and arranged to connect two pieces of lace in band effect. The lace in cream color and with the pin-tuck insertions makes a trimming smart enough to be really distinctive.

Straps of ribbon should extend up from the gown portion over the shoulders to keep the weight of wear from the more-or-less fragile yoke. This ribbon should harmonize with the bow at the center front.

Such a gown makes a lovely gift, especially for an early spring birthday.

UNION HILL

Most every one around here reported a nice time new years. Quite a bunch of the young folks of this place went to Egypt Friday night.

Gladys Roddy was the guest of Jennie Palmer Sunday.

Mr. Herron and Family from Ardmore were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Whitson Monday.

Quite a few of the old friends are moving out of this community and new ones taking their places. We hope that the new ones will make as good in the future as the old ones have in the past.

Our farmers union is still progressing nicely.

Some of the farmers are preparing their land for the next crop.

Come on everybody lets help Egypt out with their singing.

RED WING.

JONES CHAPEL

Every one has begun breaking their land getting ready for farming.

Mrs. Mary Williams spent Sunday with Luther Bottoms and family at Union Hill.

Bill Ballard and wife and Miss Rosa Ballard and Myrtle Norton spent Sunday night with Mrs. Jones at Walnut Grove.

Matt Keeling spent Saturday night with Munro Abbott and wife.

The older people have been very nice the last week to the young folks. Entertaining the young folks with a party every night. We all sure do appreciate their kindness.

Mrs. Maud Allen of Egypt spent Sunday night with her mother, Mrs. Casey.

Jim Fisher of Prisco spent Monday night with W. W. Norton.

The scout executive made flying trips to Lawrence, Fitchburg, Steedman, Allen this week. At each place he received much encouragement as to the Boy Scout work.

The Allen Boy Scout Troop committee met and elected Mr. Jesse Sipes Scout master for the coming year. Mr. Geo. Adams was elected president of the court of honor. Other men elected to membership of the court of honor were Doctors Rose and Gerniger and Dr. Means, Messrs. Lyl Prince, W. A. Delaney and the troop committeemen for the coming year will be Messrs. John Pegg, J. K. Malone, L. M. Morris, Oscar Moore and Charley Compton. Each church and lodge and the American legion are represented on this troop committee. Meetings were planned ahead which will run them on into the first of June. Austin Kidwell will be an Eagle Scout very soon. He has kept the troop going more than any one else in Allen. Allen has no finer boy than Austin Kidwell.

The Francis Scouts and the Allen scouts played a basket ball game Wednesday evening and the game was hard fought all the way through but the Francis scouts won by 11 to 0. The game was played at Allen.

The radio concert at Fitchburg was much appreciated by the people of that community. The Radio worked perfectly, in fact this was the best concert we have ever given and all were well satisfied with it. Carl and Vernon rigged up a new outfit and it did the work in a most satisfactory way. The scouts there realized $9.50 out of the concert. Mr. Oliver Johns will make this troop one of the best in the county for with the new troop committee and the help of Prof. Watson it will do good. Mr. Harry McKee and Mr. Etheridge and Mr. Watson will be the new troop committee. Mr. and Mrs. Lehr of Ada took us down in their car which we appreciate very much.

Vanoss scouts have registered for the coming year and we got ten or twelve new members as a result of our trip over there this week. Rev. Thos. Coffee and Mr. Carl Standridge will handle the troop. Messrs. Buck, Hunt and Berger will act as troop committeemen for the year. Several fine meetings have been planned for the scouts and they will have something special on hand for this coming Monday evening.

Prof. Kuykendall of Steedman is doing his part to get up a group of scouts at Steedman this winter. We will give a radio concert there Tuesday evening for the benefit of the boys there.

Sunday evening we will give a radio concert at Lawrence. We will do our best to tune into a sermon and a church program and if we do not have that the scout executive will preach a short sermon and hold a service there which will be in keeping with the day.

A mass meeting of all troops was held at the First Baptist church Friday evening. Badges were awarded to Fred Abney, Guy Sadler, R. Wayne Kidd, Donald Montgomery, Brown, Mackin and Geo. Kitchell. Here is something which ought to interest Ada Scouts and start scouts to work for new members and to register old ones.

The scout who gets the greatest number of boys to become scouts for the first time and pays all of his registration fee will be given a brand new 22 rifle. The scout getting the second highest number will be given an Ingersoll watch. The one getting the third highest number will be given a pearl handle knife. New scouts count ten points. Re-registered scouts count three points. This contest will run to March 1.

Friday, Jan. 19, is the day set for the physical examination contest to see which scout passes the best physical examination before a group of Ada doctors. The McThwaite Oil and Gas Co. has offered prizes to scouts in the twelve, thirteen, fourteen and fifteen year old classes.

The first thirty boys to register as new scouts will get a free ticket to a show.

good town that you are the best scouts in the state of Oklahoma. We know that you are but we want the citizens of Ada to know it. We appreciate very much the fine compliment paid us by the Ada News.

It was a fine game of basket ball wasn't it boys? And the Konawa scouts were a mainly lot of boys too and they had some fine team work but the Ada scouts outplayed them just a little and so won the game by the small score of 19 to 14. We will play them a return game very soon. Hugh Smith refereed the game and he did fine work. The game was cleanly played by both teams and there was not the least show of temper or rough play from either side. Scouts we hope that you will always play as clean a game with every other team.

Bennie Shipman says that he will give any old boy in this town a hot race for the rifle but George Kitchell dropped in just a little later and registered two or three just to show Bennie that he wasn't the only scout who was a working for one of those prizes.

Lawrence school house was packed to its full capacity Sunday night to hear the radio concert given under the auspices of the boy scouts through Mr. Vernon Rollow, Carl Spangler and Clinton Vancouver. At first there was a little static which bothered but during the intermission between concerts and the sermon preached by the scout executive it cleared up and we were able to give them a fine program of pipe organ music, a string trio from Sweeney's automobile school and a sermon by some minister at Davenport, Iowa. A collection was taken for the boy scouts which amounted to $3.92.

OBITUARY

The death of Mrs. G. R. McKendree Sunday morning came as a sad surprise to relatives and many friends of the aged Ada resident. Although she had been critically ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Gotcher, 201 East Seventeenth street, for some time her death was unexpected.

Funeral services were held at the family home this morning, Reverend J. H. Ball, officiating.

Interment services were held at the Rose Hill cemetery.

The deceased was survived by three children, C. H. McKendree of Kansas City; Mrs. J. D. Gotcher, and E. H. McKendree of Ada.

Mrs. McKendree was born in Jackson county, Alabama, September 20, 1843 and died in Ada January 3, 1923.

She was married to James N. McKendree, July 3, 1863. To this union three children were born, three of whom survive the deceased. The three living children were present at the funeral services here.

The deceased united with the Methodist church early in life and has been a close worker even in the later years of her life. Her father was a Methodist preacher before her.

Her father was a nephew of Bishop McKendree, one of the pioneer preachers of Methodism. Her husband was a distant relative of Bishop McKendree.

Mrs. McKendree had lived in Ada for the past twenty years. STILLWATER.—Beginning with a flock of 125 Brown Leghorn hens Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Switzer of Skiatook, Tulsa county, made a profit of $1,009.05 within a year, according to data which Anna L. Delhi, district demonstration agent, obtained on a recent visit to Tulsa. Sales included 1,855 dozen eggs for a total of $630.55.

ADA U. C. T. ELET NEW OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Members of the Ada Chapter, U. C. T., began the new year of their activities with the election of officers and a joint social affair Saturday night at the Odd Fellows hall with a good attendance to enjoy the optimistic talks in interest of the local chapter.

Members present were served to an especially prepared banquet under direction of ladies of the Episcopal church, the committee in charge consisting of Mesdames Blake, Parker, Sledge and Sparks.

Following officers were elected in regular business session: Senior commander, D. A. Davis; past commander, A. W. Parker; junior commander, F. E. Gray; secretary-treasurer, E. A. Allen; conductor, J. E. Russell; page, J. W. Brown; sentinel, A. T. Keltner; executive committee, H. B. Roach, B. T. Boggan, R. E. Griffith and Thomas B. Blake; chaplain, H. B. Roach.

COMMUNITY CHORAL CLUB HAS GOOD BEGINNING

Ada's Community Choral Club had a wonderful opening night. Every one is delighted with Mr. Cooke as a director and indications are that we will have an enthusiastic chorus. The preliminaries are over now and next Friday night intensive work will begin. Individual voice parts will be looked after and places given. Two more selections will be in the hands of the director and copies enough for 200 voices.

It is the purpose of the chorus directors to give a spring festival in April. Three or four choruses assisted by some artist either in voice violin or piano will make up the first effort with a Summer Festival in June which will be on a much larger scale.

LARGEST MANUFACTURING BUILDING IN CONSTRUCTION

SAND SPRINGS, Jan. 5.—Officials of the cotton mill now under construction here stated this week that the mill will be making yarn in ninety days and cotton goods soon after that.

The ground floor of the mill will cover 106,000 square feet according to the plans. This is more than an entire block, and will probably be the largest amount of floor space contained in any manufacturing establishment of one building in the state, it is said here. The plant will cover more than two city blocks.

HIS SECRET

By MOLLIE MATHER

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Helen smoothed the pretty lavender muslin thoughtfully. Would she be privileged to wear it on Saturday afternoon? she wondered, with Dean walking by her side through the park. Helen had set her heart upon having Dean to herself this one summer afternoon.

Dean was kindly, humorous, in his refusals. "Don't you want to be by yourself once in awhile without my boring presence?" he would ask her, and Helen knew that this was but a way of putting her wishes aside. But why?—that was the question which troubled. Before marriage her eager lover had been insistent in his coaxings for this very favor. "Just to have you to myself for one afternoon by the sea," he would plead. Helen had been a young woman of many engagements. Professional engagements were mostly; her sweet singing voice was in great demand in the homes of her friends and in other places, where people paid for the privilege.

"But next Saturday, Dean, may we not go then to Oakland, perhaps—or wherever you wish? A tea in a restaurant maybe, then on to the show? I've retrained my hat, too; it looks quite jaunty; you will be proud of me, dear"—so trembled Helen.

"I have a little matter of my own on hand. Sorry. Later we must make up for your lack of holidays." Dean always went away alone. When he returned late in the evening her day was spoiled and he was too weary to talk.

"Where have you been?" she asked him once tentatively, and he replied: "A matter of business. I have told you before. Some time I'll go into the subject more satisfactorily."

Helen ceased to bother with questions, but her apprehension grew.

Her husband started off upon his Saturday afternoon business, with a light step and a gay whistled tune.

The cessation of their days together did not, evidently, depress him.

The lavender dress was very becoming on this last afternoon of Helen's pining request. But it failed to move her husband to agreement with her wish. He kissed her tenderly, then hurried away. Then a primitive impulse seized the long-tried Helen. She would secretly follow. Dean was wearing his best evening tux, he looked remarkably handsome.

Her heart hammering painfully against the folds of lavender muslin, Helen entered the second car of the suburban train that Dean boarded. He was in the first. Her widened eyes watched the platform at every small station. At last her husband came swinging down the aisle and alighted. Shielding herself in the crowd, Helen alighted, too. It was a simple matter now to follow on an opposite side of the village street.

Dean sprang up the steps of a trim bungalow and pressed the call button.

Helen could plainly discern the young woman who opened the door to him. She wore a pinkish frock and smiled a welcome. The door closed.

Helen waited in the vacant garden of a house opposite until her husband came again down the steps. He was leaving upon some errand, evidently, for she distinctly heard his cheery—"I'll be back in a few minutes." The same young woman nodded, understanding.

Helen ascended the bungalow steps and stepped smilingly inside at the attractive young woman's invitation.

"I wondered," she said, "if this house might be for sale?"

"Oh, no," the young woman assured her. "This is Mr. Dean Travers' house. It is not for sale."

Helen gasped as she gazed at the charming appointments of the rooms—Dean's house! here in Colcrest village, the very location that she had always desired—in her dreams. And there in the garden was the tiny latticed summer house that Dean had added, generously.

Limply, Helen dropped into a chair. A pleasant-faced woman came through the doorway.

"Mother," said the girl, "this lady thought Mr. Travers' house might be for sale."

"Land, no!" the woman exclaimed. "Mr. Travers has been at too much trouble planning it all out to suit his wife. He wants it fixed to the last detail, he says, before he brings her out to surprise her. Mr. Travers is going to let her arrange all the things in Mrs. Travers' own room before he brings her out. Laura is real excited."

A frowning glance from her daughter silenced the mother's garrulous tongue.

"Thank you," Helen said, and departed.

She was curled up in her favorite corner of the couch at evening when Dean returned. Demurely, she smiled, "Had a trying day, Dean?" With a gesture of great content he sank at her side.

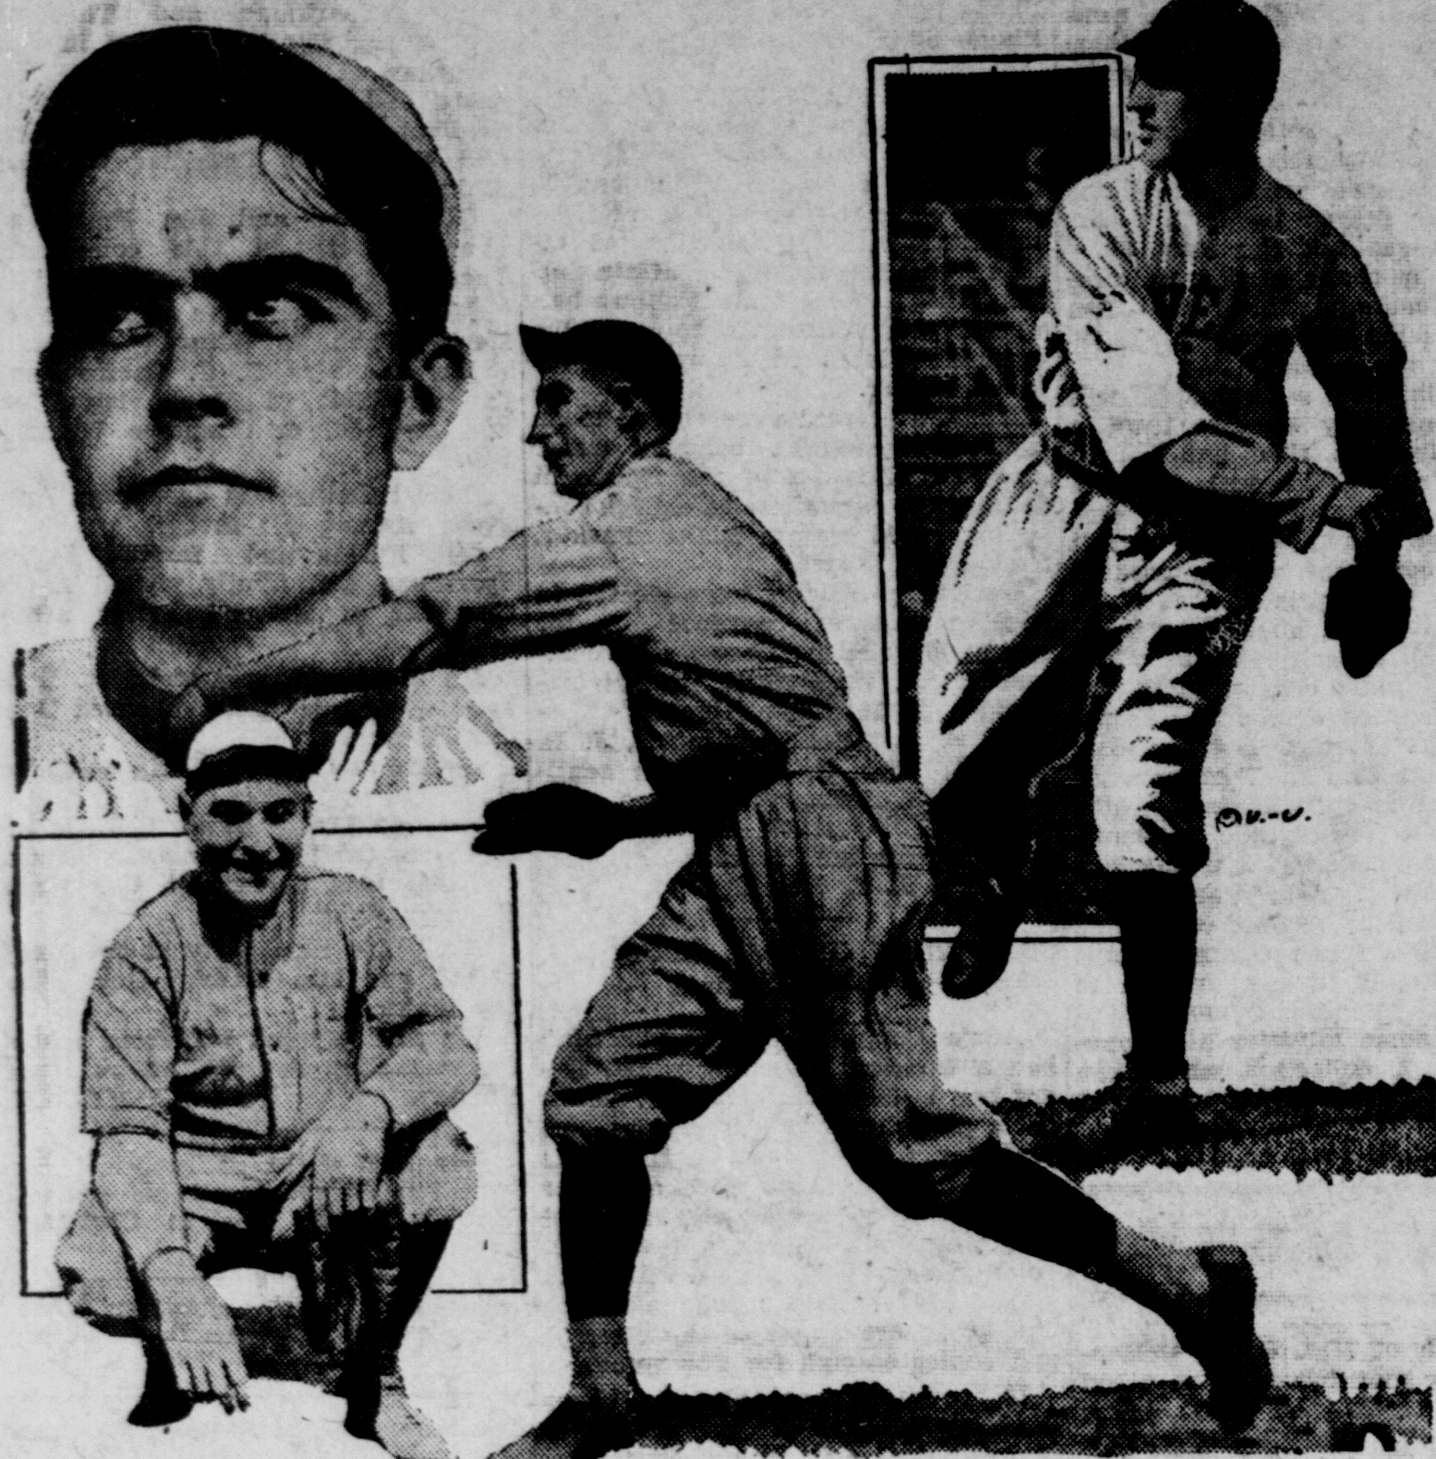

"A day of happy anticipation," he said, then told his long cherished secret.

Helen's delighted surprise satisfied him completely. His arms about her, he spoke:

"And all this time that I've been planning and working you never bothered me with questions—or suspicion. I tell you, little Nell, that's the kind of a wife to have—a wife who trusts."

Helen smiled enigmatically. "And who knows when to keep silent," she said.

Baseball Fountain of Youth
In Pittsburg, Say Vet Players

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Ever since Ponce de Leon conducted his search for the fountain of youth (never having heard of monkey glands) legions of men have sought the same elusive spring. Thousands of rumors have led them on wild goose chases. Now tips fly about like chaff.

The latest dope is that the mysterious source of youth is in the park of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

That comes straight from three men that you and I know. Can't beat that.

The three men are Babe Adams, Earl Hamilton and Reb Russell.

The St. Louis Browns decided at the beginning of the 1916 campaign that Hamilton, after five busy years in the big show, was done. Hamilton went to Detroit on May 30, that year, for a trial, and when he failed to get going was turned back to the Browns.

That club hung onto him until 1917 and they consented to send him to Columbus. It looked like curtains for Earl.

Came the New Chance

Then the Pirate owners called Hamilton to the fountain—obtained him in a player deal. Hamilton won but six games in 1918 for the Pirates and then became a regular.

In the three campaigns, including that year's he turned in forty-two victories and forty-five defeats.

Last year was Hamilton's best from an average standpoint. He won eleven and lost but six games for the Smoky City team.

Babe Adams is recalled most readily by his brilliant feat of winning three games single handed in the 1909 world's series. That was his first real year in the big show. For the next six years he thundered down through the National league campaigns, hurling his way into baseball's Hall of Fame. In 1916, however he won but two games and lost nine and the Pirate leaders called him done. He was allowed by the other moguls to drift out of the big show. The Pirates released him to St. Joe in the Western league. He balked. He finally did don a uniform, however, with Kansas City and his fourteen victories against the A. A. sluggers made the Pirate owners reconsider their decision.

He returned to the Smoky City in 1918. That year he loafed—and visited the spring daily. The next season he won seventeen games and lost but ten. Two years ago he won the same number and lost thirteen. Last year he fell off a bit, winning but eight and losing eleven but he isn't done yet.

The Third Beneficiary

Red Russell is the latest man to visit the fountain and renew his youth. Back in 1913 Russell went south with the White Sox as a pitching rookie. That fall he found himself the talk of the baseball world. He had literally stood the league on its head with his pitching. He won twenty-one and lost sixteen games. The next five seasons he chalked up sixty-one victories of the Windy City bunch under all conditions. He lost but forty-eight games. In the final one of these five years his arm apparently went dead, however. He won but six games that year. He appeared to be through. The Sox decided to send him to Minneapolis and no big league mogul said "Nay."

Becomes Outfielder

With the Millers Russell became an outfielder and eventually led that clouting crowd in slugging. His showing caused the White Sox to call him back. The next season, 1921 found him back with the Millers, however. And then came his chance to wade in the fountain of youth. The Pirates acquired him and put him to work in the outfield. He hit only .368 in some fifty-odd games. He's one of the fixtures for the coming season.

Now Jim Bagby, veteran pitcher of the Cleveland club, whose days as a pitcher—at least with Cleveland—seemed over last season, has been taken on by the Pirates. Three have found the spring. Will Jim make the fourth?

Quarters Here for Bout
January 18.

Training quarters for "Fistic" DeLaney of Shawnee and Arch Cooper of Ada, who will appear in a ten round bout here January 18 under the auspices of the Legion for the benefit of the Elks, were to be opened this week.

A. R. Dixon, trainer and manager for Cooper, said today that all plans for the bout were coming around in fine shape and that local fans would be given a real treat in the boxing exhibition—the first staged here since last spring.

Cooper needs no introduction to local fans. He has appeared in a large number of bouts here, winning most of them and has always given an excellent account of himself with the gloves. DeLaney is a good man also, Dixon says, and believes that Cooper will be hard put to hold his own with the Shawnee pugilist.

Several preliminaries are being arranged for the event. It is believed that some of the preliminaries will include two or three home boys, who have appeared in the squared circle before.

The bout now being planned will be Cooper's fourteenth. He started his career here two years ago and has advanced rapidly. For the past eight weeks he has been training in Tulsa with some of the strongest boxers in the state. He is in excellent physical condition and knows much more about the boxing game than he did when he last appeared here.

TREATISE ON COTTON GROWING AND BOLL-WEEVIL CONTROL

By Hardy Dial,
Cotton Grower and Boll Weevil Expert.

BANKERS INTERESTED

I hesitated long before I made known my discovery of this parasite; for at that time it was not in my province to do so. I was not in the employ for making scientific research for such things, and many there were whose daily business it was to make such investigations, and discoveries. I first told of my discovery, while working for the State Board of Agriculture of Oklahoma, in the fall and winter of 1921. There some whose business it is to know bugs, scornfully and gleefully pronounced me "the bug" and hooted the idea of a boll weevil parasite. In May of 1922, the bankers of Ada, Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, engaged me to put on a two months campaign in this county in the interest of cotton farming, and boll weevil control.

They pooled together to pay my salary, and I began my work about June 10th. As a result of this campaign there are many farmers, bankers and other business men who will cheerfully substantiate the truth of the existence of a boll weevil parasite. There are even a few entomologically learned men who have recanted their pronouncement against the existence of this parasite.

They have gone so far as to have his picture taken in the act of feeding upon the weevil larva.

Should Produce The Best

In the condensed form I have of necessity been obliged to use in writing this treatise on cotton growing and cotton pests, I have left unsaid many things that I am sure would have been of benefit to the earnest, conscientious farmer. While it is, or should be, the aim of every man who raises cotton to produce the best cotton possible, it is of no less importance to the banker, business man and buyer, than it is to the farmer himself that an equitable and just system of marketing cotton shall prevail; a system that will insure "justice for all and special privileges for none."

Now, farmer, my advice to you is to plant no more cotton than you can cultivate and gather with ease, without paying out one dollar of expense. Then plant the balance of your lands in something for the hogs, something for the horse and the cow and something for the hens; and a good truck patch and garden for the wife and you are on the road to success.

It is not egotism, nor self-complacency that causes me to apparently throw bouquets at myself on my methods and knowledge of cotton growing, but it is the result of my many years of experience in successful growing that prompts me to pass my knowledge on for

COMEDY HAS PLOT

"Clarence" Brings Message to Most American Families.

"Clarence," a William de Mille Paramount production featuring Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy, which will be shown at the McSwain Theatre today, is a Booth Tarkington comedy with a good plot.

Clarence Smith is a coleopterist and the only man in the world who ever drove army mules without swearing at them. He comes quietly into the Wheeler household where there is much bickering, and soon becomes the confident of all in the house. How he brings peace and happiness into the family makes a good story.

The picture, which has been made from the celebrated stage comedy of Booth Tarkington, comes announced as the comedy hit of the year.

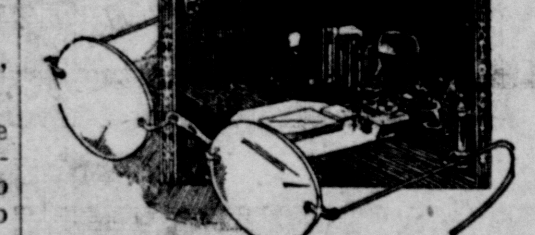

Wewoke, Okemah, Ada, Sulphur, and Henryetta are now the schools devoting most interest to the conference. No word has been received from McAlester and Holdenville. Madill and Tishomingo are to be given an opportunity to join.

ALL-STAR CAST IS SEEN IN FOX SPECIAL "THUNDERCLAP"

The question of "who is the star" in "Thunderclap" the William Fox special which comes to the American Theater for a two days run commencing today is happily answered in the brief announcement: "There are eleven artists in the cast of 'Thunderclap,' each is a star."

In addition to the assurance of one of the strongest casts ever assembled for the making of a picture, there is added interest in the fact that Mr. Fox has spared neither time nor expense in making certain there should be no make-believe or imitation in "Thunderclap." The result is an unbroken panorama of thrills, smiles and sighs—a smooth running story in which action speaks louder than captions and which commands undivided interest and attention from the introduction of the first character until the completion of a surprising but none-the-less captivating climax.

"Thunderclap" deals with the colorful experience of a young girl fresh from a convent and who, to her horror, finds that her stepfather is the proprietor of a gambling establishment. A thrilling horse race proves an important event in the life of the girl—whose devotion to an invalid mother is but an added charm to a beautiful love story.

State Pig Club Given Credit.

Stillwater, Okla. — Oklahoma's winning of the grand championship in the fat swine division of the International Livestock exposition at Chicago in December was "absolute and undisputed proof of the value and effectiveness of pig club work," among the boys on Oklahoma farms, according to Joe Haaga, assistant secretary of the National Duroc Jersey Record association, because of the part feeding and care evidently played in making the supremacy of the grand champion barrow. "For," Haaga says, in an article just published in the Duroc Bulletin, "this barrow was cared for from birth and fitted by Felix Roy, who for three years in succession was the champion pig club member of the state of Oklahoma."

Roy originally was a member of Canadian county's junior pig club, joining in 1916 when he was sixteen years old. That year, at the state fair, his Duroc gilt won first place in the breed. The following fall, a Duroc-Jersey pig he entered won grand championship over all breeds at the state fair. In 1918 he won a litter championship over all breeds and a free trip to the International Livestock exposition.

In 1920, the animal husbandry department of the A. and M. College employed Roy to be swine herdsman in charge of all breeds in the college pens. Barrows fitted by him won breed championships at International shows in both 1920 and 1921 and at the last world show, the pride of his Duroc-Jersey pen took the supreme honors.

This week, Roy resigned his job at the college to go into the hog business for himself, in partnership with an older brother at Union, N.

Canadian county. They will breed Duroc-Jerseys.

"It is not improbable that except for club work, Felix Roy might have entered professional or commercial fields," says Haaga, in his Duroc Bulletin article. "There are countless thousands of Felix Roes on our farms today. These boys are made of sterner stuff. There is no greater human breed than farm boys. They need only the opportunity to develop their latent talents. It is our sacred duty to provide them their opportunity. The pig club is the institution that will hold these master builders of the future on the farm where the products of their genius will best serve the nation."

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION
PASSES ON LABOR LAWS

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 5. — That the state, a county, city or municipality, is subject to the operation of the workmen's compensation law, was a ruling of the state supreme court this week in upholding an award made by the state industrial commission.

The case was taken before the high tribunal by the county commissioners of Pawnee county. The decision awarded R. D. Whitlow, a laborer, damages for injuries received while he was working on road construction.

The Greatest Historian of Them All

Homer wove history into his songs. Pharaohs carved it in stone. Julius Caesar painstakingly penned it on papyrus.

Today, history is written and given to you simultaneously with its occurrence. Every day, the important events of the world are summed up fully and comprehensively in your newspaper. You are able to keep abreast of history in its making.

And not the least important phase of modern history lies in the realm of industrial progress. You find this chronicled in the advertisements.

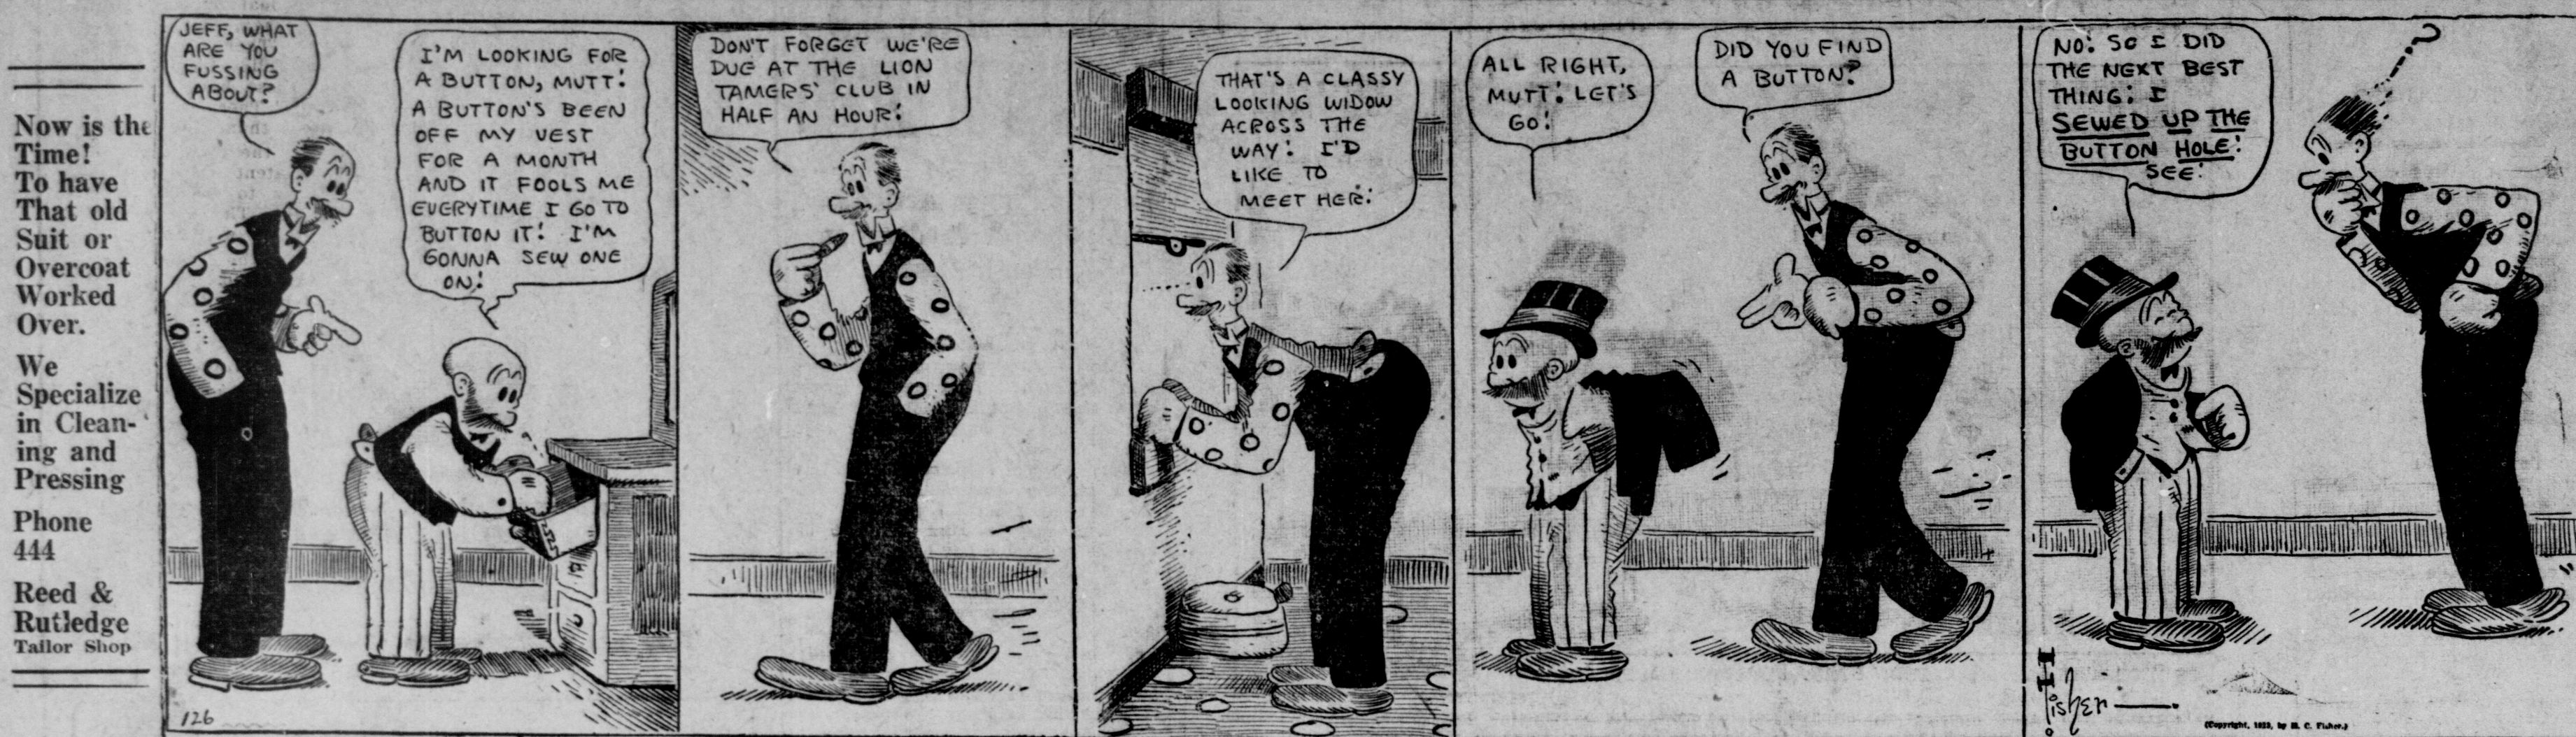

Advertising is a priceless boon to those who use it properly. It keeps their information up-to-date on the great variety of things that make life what it is today. It tells them of the thousands and one things they need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his wares. He knows they are good—he backs them with his money because he is confident that they will satisfy. For only merchandise that is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

KEEP UP WITH HISTORY. IT PAYS.

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A close check has been inaugurated by federal prohibition authorities on liquor shipments consigned to foreign embassies and legations here with a view to determining whether this portion of supplies are being brought through the American customs to these favored destinations.
If the investigation discloses that any embassy or legation is receiving supplies out of proportion to the needs of its staff and for personal use and official entertaining, the state department will be asked to call the situation to the attention of the foreign government involved.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—And Mother Also Knows a Thing or Two

BY F. LEIPZIGER

Hints on Etiquette

By CLARA DELAFIELD

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Laura Ryebant uttered a plaintive little exclamation as she sat down to her desk in the office of the Young Girl's Companion and saw the mass of letters awaiting her.

Nevertheless, she buckled to her task, for "Aunt Esther's Page on Etiquette and Deportment" had been a feature of the magazine for many, many years. Laura had been "Aunt Esther" for nine months, since the last "Aunt Esther" left to get married.

But it was hard—hard in remembrance of Jim's irrational behavior the night before. Jim had been absolutely in the wrong. She had told him she would never see him again. She had a perfect right to spend the evening with poor, crippled Elsie James—and he had suspected it was with another man.

"And that's an insult to self-respecting girl can ever, ever forgive," she told herself.

She began to open the letters, which asked the old, old questions. Presently she was busily writing:

"Sybil, . . . My dear, I have answered your question in these columns over and over again. It is not correct to accept any gift from a young man except books, flowers or candy. Certainly you may not accept a pair of shoes from him. He will only think the less of you for doing so."

Laura took up another letter and sighed as she read it:

"Dear Aunt Esther: I am in great trouble and I do not know what I ought to do. Me and my fellow have had a serious falling out. He accused me of going with another fellow. He did see me with the other fellow, but the other fellow stopped me in the street and wanted me to go with him and I said no because I was already going with the first fellow. Now my first fellow says I met the other fellow on purpose and I'm heartbroken. Dear Aunt Esther, should I try to explain again or go with the other fellow?"

Laura took up her fountain pen and wrote:

"If your sweetheart has given way to base suspicions of you, it is his place to make amends, not yours to approach him. However hard it be, you should not make the first overtures. He will only think the less of you for it."

"And that's that," said Laura, thinking of Jim. And she wiped a little tear that wouldn't stay put in the place where tears belong. She opened another letter. Here was a young girl in love with a "fellow" who was a laggard in love. Ought she to hint delicately that she would like them to be engaged?

"A girl must never, under any circumstances, make the first advances," Laura wrote. "That privilege belongs to the man exclusively. Nothing fills a right-thinking young man with more disgust than to have a girl throw herself at his head. You can only possess your soul in patience."

These, and many more such questions did Laura answer, while the hands of the clock crept 'round and 'round. At last she put her pen down. Lunch time had arrived.

Laura got up and sighed.

There came a tap at the door. "Come in," said Laura.

And Jim stood before her—Jim, looking rather sheepish, rather ashamed of himself, but so nice. Oh, Jim, always looked nice! She could never cherish rancor very long against Jim, however badly he behaved to her.

Impulsively she stepped forward. "Oh, Jim, darling, I'm so ashamed of my meanness to you last night," she said. "I wish I'd tried harder to make you believe in me."

He clasped her in his arms. "Laura, sweetheart, I do believe in what you told me," he replied, kissing her. "I know you are incapable of deceiving me. It was just my base suspicions. Laura, if you only knew how dear you are to me."

"Jim, do you know what the trouble's really been?" murmured Laura. "I've never felt quite sure you—you wanted me to marry you. You—you've only hinted, you know."

Jim looked astounded. "Why, dear, I thought that was always understood," he answered. "Of course I do, just as soon as I can get that raise. And look what I've brought you! Six pairs—saw them in a shop window and couldn't resist it." He pulled the cover off a box.

"Oh, Jim, how heavenly!" murmured Laura in ineffable contentment. "And just my color, too!"

How Do the Gals Stand It?

"The thing that puzzles me," remarked the observant citizen who was watching passersby during the rainstorm, "is how these girls who work in stores and offices manage to go through a fall season and live to tell about it. Look at the kind of foot covering they wear. The slippers have soles as thin and porous as paper. In addition style decrees an upper that is, in many cases, cut so low at the ball of the foot that accidental stepping into a shallow pool of water on the pavement would result in a soaking wet foot. In nearly every instance the girl wears silk stockings that are as thin as an Isadore Duncan dress. Why, if a man wore that kind of shoes and hose his nearest of kin would be collecting on his insurance policy about the time of the first snow-fall.—Detroit News.

Eggs sold in Denmark are numbered so that each can be traced to the farm from which it originated.

KEEPING UNCLE SAM'S FUTURE ADMIRALS FIT

THEO ROOSEVELT JR. AND SECRETARY DENBY REVIEWING CADETS

In spite of the strict physical requirements for admission to the U. S. Naval Academy, at Annapolis, the long drills and strenuous setting up exercises that form part of the daily routine, Uncle Sam must employ a staff of medical officers to keep these young men physically fit.

Recent reports from the medical staff showed 130 of these men had been below par physically. Many were under weight and unromantic as it may seem, 45 of these cases were suffering from the common garden variety of boils.

Over the year period just completed, the doctors went to work on the student body at Annapolis and proceeded to eliminate the boils. They were prompted by a midshipman who returned cured of boils after an extended sick leave. He had gained 40 pounds in weight and he gave all the credit to fresh compressed yeast.

So 130 future admirals were organized into a yeast squad, and took their yeast regularly three times a day. Commander L. S. K. Reeves, Medical Corps, U. S. N., observed the effects of the yeast feeding, and in his official report said:

"Forty-five of these cases were suffering from boils, the majority having had them for some time. Of them, thirty were rapidly cured. They continued the treatment and boils ceased to occur. Fifty-five took treatment to increase their weight. Thirty of these gained weight. One gained 40 pounds, one 10 pounds, and 15 from 1 to 5 pounds. The willingness of large numbers of men to take this treatment would indicate their confidence in its therapeutic and food value."

So the ban is on boils at Annapolis. And no longer will the admirals in the making go painfully about their duties with neck swathed in gauze bandages.

WALTON NUMBERS AIDS FOR STATE

ly as a rule, I do not believe the state or nation should engage in business. Exceptions exist. The postoffice, the school and the highways are exceptions. When it is apparent that the public welfare demands that another exception should be made, we should act with courage and decision, but the ultimate remedy in my opinion is voluntary cooperation.

"I am conscious of the frailties such as partisan prejudice, factionalism, jealousy of power selfishness and the like to which we are all heir, that these things tend to divide us and pull against our best efforts for the public good," the governor continued. "May I not with my prerogative as chief executive, and you, within your prerogatives as contemplated by our forms of government, cordially cooperate? Let us rely on the 'Divinity that shapes our ends' enact into the law the mandates given us by our masters who called us here—the sovereign people of Oklahoma."

Obstacles to Farmer
Taking up the condition of the Oklahoma farmer sixty to seventy percent of whom he declared were "reeling into bankruptcy" Governor Walton outlined an alleged system of group referred to as "market raiders" to prevent the farmer from receiving a just price for wheat.

This system, by closing the market to the farmer when the price is up and forcing him to sell when the market is glutted, would be defeated, the executive declared, were the farmer able to hold his products until he is ready to sell. This would be accomplished by the erection of the proposed system of warehouses, he asserted.

Referring to the state ownership of cement mills which would manufacture the cement for the warehouses, the executive declared this cement could also be used for the construction of highways. The money for the purchase of such factories would be obtained according to his plan, by a tax of one per cent per gallon on all oil and gasoline sold by retailers and from a $5 annual retailer's license. If this fails to provide enough funds, the cement should be sold at a small profit which would pay for the plant in a reasonable time.

The board of directors of the cement factory would be chosen from lists submitted to the governor by farmers, organizations, the state federation of labor and chambers of commerce. After the erection of the warehouses, warehouse receipts would be issued and upon such receipts the producing farmer would be given a loan of public money, if available and at a rate of interest not exceeding three per cent, according to the governor's plan. All private money loaned to farmers on these receipts would be limited to a rate not in excess of four per cent, he said and should be exempt from taxation.

The governor characterized the tenant farmer as a "homeless man" and urged the legislature to enact laws aiding him to acquire property. He made no specific recommendation in this regard.

New Bonus Proposition

Referring to the bonus proposition which he caused to be initiated and which was defeated at the November election, the governor asked the legislature to pass a resolution calling a special election at which the measure would again be submitted to a vote. He suggested that oil refineries be eliminated from taxation to provide funds to meet the bonus for fear it "might cause them to move their plants across the state line."

Declaring that road construction was confined to main highways, he suggested legislation permitting formation of improvement districts which would be empowered to issue bonds and construct highways, the projects being promoted by abutting owners on a theory of special benefits. He recommended that a system be evolved whereby cement for these undertakings could be obtained from the state mills at cost.

Bank Law Control

The bank guarantee law should "fully sustained by proper amendments," the governor declared and said that depositors in failed banks should be immediately reimbursed by a system of credits based on the assets and resources of the banks and their stockholders, the credit to be made liquid, kept at par and as stable as may be by law. He recommended an increase in the present assessment for the maintenance of the fund and that provision be made to enforce the liability of all banks that have withdrawn from the state system. The funds of the banks, he said, should be "safeguarded from thieves within" by an increased number of examiners and stringent penal provisions. The governor suggested a board authorized to distribute state funds among all solvent banks of the state with a view to placing money in farmers' hands at low interest.

With the declaration that "we should endeavor to safeguard the industry that is producing our gross production tax" the governor urged a bureau of statistics which would help the mineral interests of the state.

Governor Walton decried the recent conditions in which schools were threatened with being closed because of litigation over railroad assessments and recommended increased power for the state board of equalization in the matter of assessing corporations and allocating taxes to various counties.

The executive said that his recommendation that the University Hospital here be used for treating the poor was made because of the superior facilities already there. He said that his plan contemplated additions to the plant. Farms for treatment of drugs and liquor addicts should be established, the governor said, adding that other states were meeting with success in such endeavors.

Governor Walton told the legislature he would deal with revenues, taxation, educational, public health, libel and slander laws, corporations, judicial reforms and measures for the relief of the congested appellate courts, exemption from taxation and other important subjects in later messages.

"CLARENCE," FINE COMEDY.

PACKED WITH LAUGHTER

Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy Featured in Production.

A wholesome comedy of family life in America! A picture story that conveys a fine message without being a preachment! That is William deMille's Paramount production of "Clarence," featuring Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy, three screen stars of unquestioned popularity. Manager McSwain announces that "Clarence" will be the bill at the McSwain theatre next Monday and he asserts it is one of the most enjoyable pictures booked by him this season.

"Clarence" is the humorous story of an ex-soldier who drove mules without swearing and who became a good angel in the family of a millionaire whose happiness is being dashed upon the rocks because of their lack of harmony and constant bickering. Clarence found the task of reconciling this family nearly as difficult as driving army mules without cursing, but he accomplishes the task with the aid of his saxophone, his genial temperament and general tact, so that happiness is the lot of all concerned.

"Clarence" is packed with laughs from beginning to end. In the title role Mr. Reid scores a conspicuous success, while Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy have parts suited to their personalities. There is a supporting cast of rare excellence, and the screen version of Booth Tarkington's famous play is said to rank as one of the most enjoyable pictures of the year. Kathryn Williams, Adolph Menjou, Edward Martindel, Bertie Johns, Robert Agnew, Dorothy Gordon and Maym Kelso are in the supporting cast.

The notice in the rooms of hotels, which read: "Have you left anything?" should be changed to "Have you anything left?"

Generally when a woman asks her husband what to do about a thing, an argument is about to begin.

One of our readers asks if a couple married near Christmas are Yuletide. Yes.

The lonesome thing in the world is the safety razor in Russia.

Still we are glad to have among our acquaintance a few men who have not been shot by their wives.

Seems like these 1923 model dancers with their wiggles and twists and squirms are somewhat out of line with the idea of our pioneer settlers.

Dance promoters should call an old fashioned dance some night, just to show the young bloods what can be produced from the discard of olden days.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—The senate and house convened at 10:30 o'clock this morning after a recess over the week-end. Thirty minutes later both houses were scheduled to meet in joint session and name a committee to invite Gov. J. B. A. Robertson to address the assembly.

Promptly at high noon Governor-elect J. C. Walton will enter the chamber and take the oath of office administered by Acting Chief Justice John T. Johnson of the state supreme court. After the new governor delivers his message to the legislature all other new state officials will take the oath. The inaugural ceremony will be completed officially when Governor Walton delivers his inaugural address at the state fair grounds under a loud speaker. Plans for the ceremonies were made at a conference yesterday between Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Trapp and Repr. Murray F. Gibbons, speaker of the house.

COST OF DRESSES TOLD BY EXPERT

Famous French Artist Says Expense of Production Boosts Cost.

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS—"Why do women's dresses cost so much?" This eternal man's question was put to Madame Jeanne Paquin, and her cryptic answer was: "They don't."

For 33 years Madame Paquin has been making dresses in Paris for the wealthy from all parts of the world. It may be that her idea of what is expensive has been influenced by the class of trade which automobiles up to her doors, but nevertheless her answer was the sincere expression of a business woman. For in the next breath she said: "Or rather, dresses do not cost the buyer so much, when it is considered what they cost the producer."

Madame Paquin employs about 900 people, and turns out 4,000 dresses a year. About 25 out of every hundred of her gowns have to be discarded because they are not properly made. This accounts in part for the high cost of those that are marketed.

"To obtain an art product, there must be waste," Madame Paquin explained. "A painter may make many sketches before he finally reaches the creation that is called art. It is the same way with dresses. I employ people who do nothing but sit around and criticize our dresses and if a given dress doesn't satisfy them, a new one must be made for the client. These people must be paid. Some of them get a hundred thousand francs a year. There are only a few people who can engage in the profession of beautifying women with clothes. These few must be paid accordingly."

"Women object to the high cost as much as men. It is a mistake to think women like to pay high prices for their dresses. You can tell all the husbands that women dispute their bills to the last penny."

"How much does it cost to dress a woman well for a year?" Madame Paquin was asked.

"There were many women who spent a hundred thousand francs a year before the war on their dresses and if they did this now their bills would run to a half million," said Madame Paquin.

"But I believe, for the average woman who can afford to dress in such houses as mine, that 50 thousand francs a year would do it, giving her about 15 dresses a year. This would give her in each season about four dresses, one for the street, one for sport, one for evening, and one for afternoon receptions. Add what is necessary for cloaks, furs, hats, shoes, umbrellas and underclothing and the total would come to about $5,000 in American money."

MCCAIN APPOINTED TO STAFF OF GOVERNOR

ARDMORE, Jan. 8.—Lieut. C. F. McCain of the air service in the United States army reserve corps, has been appointed a member of Governor-elect Jack Walton's staff during the inaugural ceremonies at Oklahoma City on January 8 and 9. Lieutenant McCain received notification of the appointment Thursday. He is athletic director at the Ardmore public schools.

HE FINDS RELIEF AFTER TWO YEARS

George Cartey $s Freedom of Stomach Trouble of Long Standing. Gives Tanlac Full Credit.

"Tanlac has given me so much relief after I had suffered such a long time, that I can hardly find words to fully express my gratitude," declared George Cartey, 173 Broad St., Spartanburg, S. C., well-known machinist for The Spartanburg Cadillac Co.

"For about two years I was in such wretched health I could scarcely do any work. I had stomach trouble all the time, and after every meal I would bloat up with gas till I could hardly stand it, and sometimes at night this trouble would make me so nervous I could not sleep."

"I read in the paper where Tanlac had helped others, and I thought maybe it would do me some good. I can say it has helped me wonderfully. My stomach is getting in fine shape, my appetite is good, I sleep soundly and am picking up right along. My confidence in Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold. Ady.
